

Tarnfield Running Co. Billing and Payments Policy

Last updated 11 September 2026. This policy applies to orders placed on our online store. It does not affect your statutory rights. It covers how we take payment and how money finds its way back to you. Whether an item can be returned or exchanged in the first place is covered by our Returns and Exchanges Policy, not this one.

1. Key terms at a glance

Item	Our policy
Payment methods	Visa, Mastercard, American Express, Apple Pay, Google Pay, and Tarnfield gift cards. You can combine a gift card with one card.
When we take payment	The full amount when you place the order, not when it ships. Your order confirmation is not confirmation of dispatch.
Currency	Pounds sterling. If your card is held in another currency, your bank sets the conversion rate and any fee. We do not see or control either.
Pending charges	An authorisation hold can show on your statement before the payment settles. These usually clear in 3 to 5 working days.
Failed payments	The order is not placed and no stock is held. Nothing is owed. Try again or use another method.
Duplicate charges	Email us both dates and amounts. We check and, where it is a genuine duplicate, refund within 5 working days.
Refund method	Back to the original payment method. We cannot send a refund to a different card or account.
Refund timing	Usually 5 to 10 working days to reach your account after a refund is approved. If nothing has arrived after two weeks, email us.
Delivery charges	Not refunded if you change your mind. Refunded if the mistake was ours or the item was faulty.
Discount codes	We refund what you actually paid, not the full price.
VAT receipts	Emailed with your order confirmation. We can resend one at any time.
Contact	billing@tarnfield.example . We usually reply within 24 to 48 hours, a little slower at weekends.

2. How and when we take payment

We take the full amount at checkout. Some banks first place an authorisation hold, which looks like a charge but has not settled yet. If your order fails after a hold has been placed, the hold is released by your bank, normally within 3 to 5 working days. We cannot release it sooner on your behalf.

Prices include VAT. The price you pay is the price shown at checkout. If a price changes after you have ordered, it does not affect an order already placed.

3. If a payment fails

A failed payment usually means the card details did not match your bank's records, the card has expired, there were not enough funds, or your bank declined the transaction for its own reasons. We are not told which. Your order is not placed and we do not hold stock while you sort it out, so a popular size may sell out in the meantime.

4. Pending charges and duplicates

If you see the same amount twice, it is usually an authorisation hold sitting alongside the settled payment, and it will disappear on its own. If both amounts are still there after 5 working days, email us with the dates, the amounts and the last four digits of the card. We will check our records and refund anything we have taken twice.

5. Refunds: how the money moves

This section covers only the mechanics. Whether you are entitled to a refund at all is decided by our Returns and Exchanges Policy and, for some items, by the product listing. Some items are marked final sale and cannot be refunded unless faulty.

Situation	Where the money goes
Paid by card	Back to the same card. Refunds cannot be redirected to a different card.
Card expired or replaced	Your bank will normally route the refund to your new card automatically. If it is rejected and comes back to us, we will contact you to arrange it.
Account closed	The refund will bounce back to us. Email us and we will arrange an alternative. This can add two to three weeks.
Paid with a gift card	Returned as gift card credit, not as cash.
Part gift card, part card	Split in the same proportion as you paid. The gift card share comes back as credit, the card share to the card.
Paid by someone else (a gift)	The refund goes to the original payment method, which means back to the person who paid. We can offer gift card credit instead if you would rather not involve them.

6. Gift cards and credit

Tarnfield gift cards do not expire and can be used across more than one order until the balance runs out. They cannot be exchanged for cash. If you lose the code and cannot supply it, we have no way to identify the card and cannot replace it, so keep the email safe.

7. Discount codes and promotions

One discount code per order. Codes cannot be combined and cannot be applied after an order has been placed. When you return part of an order bought with a code, we refund what you actually paid for those items, not the full price.

If a code required a minimum spend and returning items takes the order below that minimum, the discount no longer applies to what you kept. We recalculate the order at the normal price and refund the difference, which will be less than you might expect. We will always show you this calculation before the refund is issued.

8. Delivery charges

Delivery charges are refunded when the mistake was ours or the item was faulty. They are not refunded when you simply change your mind, even if the items themselves are refunded in full. Return postage is a separate matter and is covered by the Returns and Exchanges Policy.

9. If you think a charge is wrong

Email billing@tarnfield.example before contacting your bank. Once a chargeback is raised, the payment is frozen while your bank investigates, and we are no longer able to refund you directly or to resolve it quickly. Almost every disputed charge we see turns out to be an authorisation hold or a second order placed by mistake, and both are quicker for us to sort out than for your bank.

Please include your order number, the date and amount, and the last four digits of the card.

10. Contact us

Email billing@tarnfield.example for anything about money. For questions about whether an item can be returned, exchanged or is still within its window, email support@tarnfield.example instead.
